

Creating confidence

Key benefits

- Confidence in the future because your information and services are safe
- Growth from new channels as we take care of your risks
- Protection from cyber attacks for your staff, customers and shareholders
- Return on investment from systems that save time, money and manpower
- Compliance with industry, data protection and privacy laws

THE CHALLENGE

Today, securing your business information is as important as protecting your property. Maybe more. Your customers, partners and staff need to know their information is safe with you. And you need protecting from criminal behaviour and inadvertent but risky actions.

The right security gives you confidence against any threat to your business. Particularly in today's electronic society where advanced, sophisticated electronic attacks target your directors, your executives and your staff. You need to protect your vital data, information and intellectual property.

OUR ANSWER

Protect your knowledge

With a secure operation, no one can spy on, sabotage or steal your ideas or sensitive information. We'll work with your people and processes and innovatively use technology to create an agile, secure, compliant business for you.

Protect your people

We use clever approaches to ease your workload and highlight only the important things. So you can work more efficiently and get better results with fewer resources. Making sure vital services run without disruption from vandalism or other crime. And keeping people safe.

Protect your name

The law demands that you keep people's information safe. We can work with you to protect their information, and give them confidence. Logica is a name people know and trust.

Protect your future

Confidence through security is at the core of a 21st century organisation. We can advise, design, build and operate the right secure environment for you. Add to your current systems, design new ones, build mobile apps, in the cloud. Do your security design, testing, operations. Whatever is right for you. We'll take care of it all, so you don't need to worry.

“Logica are experts in SCADA security and the work that we have developed together makes us confident that we can protect ourselves effectively from the cyber security threats.”

Aurelio Blanquet
Director, Automation, Telecontrol and Telecommunications

“Logica is a key supplier to Paradigm’s Skynet 5 Programme and is an active participant in the Skynet Enterprise forum. Logica provides critical World Class IT Security and Network Management systems, which are fundamental to the success of our business”

Keith Norton,
Managing Director, Paradigm

“The candid advice has enabled BSS to deal with issues at an early stage and has ensured that projects have been delivered on time and to budget with security managed in a cost effective manner.”

Dani Muir
Sales and Marketing Director at BSS

“The trust that customers place in Fronter is key to our success and our growth. Logica’s security credentials are foremost in the market and this re-assures our customers that our security has been designed to the very highest standards.”

Roger Larsen
CEO, Fronter AS

Confidence through security

There are two key ways we can help you protect your information, and your assets.

Secure your organisation

Every part of your business should be secure. We can help you control who has access to which information, systems and areas. And teach your team about risks, using the right processes and complying with the latest laws. We’ll also give you tools to avoid data loss, helping you create new, secure customer opportunities. Working securely with global partners. In the cloud, mobile or off-shore.

Our Security Managed Service can monitor your systems for sophisticated attacks. Limiting fraud. Safeguarding services. Freeing you to conduct your business.

Safeguarding your people and assets

We’ll help you protect people and minimise losses due to fraud. Making sure vital services, like energy and telecoms, run without disruption from physical or electronic crime. Quickly identifying and mitigating threats from outside – or inside – your business. Stopping criminal behaviour. Saving money. Building confidence.

WHY LOGICA?

We’re recognised as having the largest number of security experts. We have worked with leading organisations in the field for over 40 years. Our services and solutions are acknowledged by the UK Government’s National Technical Authority for security. We help protect the National Critical Infrastructure and businesses like BMW Group, EDP and La Française des jeux.

“The relationship with Logica has been built up over many years and allows us to work freely and openly with the Logica consultants. They understand our culture and have unrivalled experience in blending our culture with the security demands of today’s business.”

John Adegoke, EMEA Compliance Director at GroupM (serving parent company of Mindshare)
